

Homework 03 - "Alternate" Textbook Notes (Due: Thursday December 4, 2008)

Each individual is to continue the process of summarizing material from the "alternate" textbook they are using. This then is a continuation of Homework 02 from earlier in the semester.

Let me remind you that the primary focus is to be "tutorial" in nature. That is, imagine and expect that the entire class will eventually have access to and will read your document. The rationale is simple; we can greatly broaden our exposure to topics by benefiting from our mutual contribution.

Now, you are asked to develop a section that parallels the material from Chapters 4 through 7 of our course text by Tsui and Karam. In other words, correlate what is covered in these chapters with your alternate textbook and report on what you have found. Do not try to write your own version of the book, but rather try to guide your reader in their potential use of that book.

In order to assist your readers it is vital that you specifically and clearly cite the material from the alternate text. For me, the emphasis here is not so much on doing what is perfectly proper, but rather the emphasis is in assisting the reader in finding what you are reporting on.

The document you prepare for this assignment should be such that it can be readily combined with the one you have from Homework 02. However, please do not include material from the earlier homework in the document you submit now. Please submit a single MS Word compatible document file (with all content embedded within).

Good luck,
P.M.J.
